

This text is hard to read

This text is easy to read

This text is easy to read

This text is easy to read

This text is easy to read

This text is hard to read

This text is hard to read

This text is hard to read

This text is easy to read

This text is easy to read

This text is hard to read

This text is hard to read

This text is easy to read

A dark, grainy night photograph. On the left, a tree is heavily covered in snow, its branches drooping. To the right, a dark building is visible, with several power lines stretching across the upper portion of the frame. The overall scene is very dark, with the snow on the tree providing the only significant light source.

This text is hard to read

This text is easy to read